OUR PROCESS

Leno offers Brokerage and Trading Services to both Institutional and Individual clients. We invite you to explore our range of brokerage and trading services and discover how we can help you unlock your potential in the dynamic world of finance.

A Leno Brokerage Account provides access to a diverse array of investment opportunities. Using innovative technology, clients can buy or sell their securities like stocks, bonds, IPOs (Initial Public Offerings), and certificates of deposit. These services and transactions are housed and managed by way of a portfolio which centralizes all investments under one “umbrella” account.

MAXIMIZE YOUR INVESTMENTS

With a Leno Brokerage Account, you can:

Trade individual securities

To buy and sell securities in the local market you must utilize the services of a licenced Broker. Leno can provide these services on your behalf. Place market and good-till-cancelled order types and all your trade confirmations will be automatically sent to you. Current quotes, account and order information are available by phone or email from 8:30 am to 4:30 pm daily.

Have all your securities custodied in one place

Unless otherwise directed Leno can provide safe custody of your securities free of charge. Securities held by us can be traded and executed quickly and efficiently without the delay of having to locate share certificates and having the signature(s) guaranteed. Additionally, our online platform allows to monitor your portfolio at your leisure.

Benefit from a single transaction account.

Your Brokerage Account is the centralized holding medium for all your money management activities. Deposits, including investment dividends and the proceeds from any sale of securities, automatically go into your Account and you can access these funds for liquidity, funding for future investments or for emergency funds.

TYPES OF BROKERAGE ACCOUNTS

Leno offers three distinct types of Brokerage Accounts tailored for both Individuals and Business Entities:

Discretionary Account

In this account type, the broker or portfolio manager is entrusted with making investment decisions on behalf of the client. These decisions are made according to a pre-established investment mandate, which outlines the client's financial goals, risk tolerance, and investment preferences. This account is ideal for clients who prefer to delegate the day-to-day management of their investments to experienced professionals, ensuring their portfolio is actively managed to maximize returns and mitigate risks.

Non-Discretionary Account

This account type provides clients with full autonomy over their investment decisions. The broker's role is limited to executing transactions based on the client's specific instructions. Clients can independently research, select, and manage their investments, benefiting from the broker's services solely for trade execution. This account is best suited for those who prefer a hands-on approach to managing their investments, relying on their own expertise and market insights.

Advisory Account

In an advisory account, clients make their own investment decisions but do so with the benefit of professional advice. The broker or portfolio manager provides detailed investment recommendations and strategic advice tailored to the client's financial objectives and risk profile. While the final decision rests with the client, they can leverage the expertise and insights of their advisor to make informed investment choices. This account type strikes a balance between autonomy and professional guidance, catering to clients who value expert advice while retaining control over their investment decisions.
